Notes to the Financial Statements

1_00 About the Organization:

The MGO Affairs Bureau, Prime Minister's Secretariat, Government of the Peoples Republic of Sangadesh (Registration No.1709 dated February 07, 2002) and Ministry of Social Welfare Department (Registration No.491 (04), dated November 01, 2001).

2.00 Project Background:

On 20 October 2008, the Government promulgated the Right to Information Ordinance 2008, following long standing demands from the media and human rights organizations. The Ordinance provides that any person seeking public information may apply in writing in prescribed forms to designated officers who must provide the information within a specified line. It also provides for the establishment of an Information Commission, which to this date has not been established. The RTI Act became Law it was ratified by the present parliament on March 29, 2009. The law came into force from July 01, 2009.

but for the law to be implemented, tremendous amount of work has to be done in sensitizing ottens to its uses as well as establishing an RTI friendly legal and information system. The potentiality and effectiveness of this law resides in its proper usage by the disempowered and disenfranchised.

over the last six years, Research Initiatives, Bangladesh (RIB) has been working with marginalized groups (ethnic, religious, caste and cultural), who have variously expressed concerns about their access to justice and their rights to participate equally in social life, we that the promulgation of this Act gives them an immense opportunity to seek justice for social, economic and political rights. But to use this opportunity they need to be sensitized and trained in the proper utilization of this Act.

3.00 Objectives:

3.01 General Objectives

To conscientize and empower socially excluded and marginalized communities by enabling them in the utilization of the Right to Information Act promulgated by the Government of Bangladesh.

3.02 Specific Objectives

- To enable access to justice for about 5 marginalized communities who are discriminated on the basis of their ethnic, religious, caste and cultural identity.
- To sensitize them on the benefits of the proper utilization and implementation of the Right to Information Act.
- To train them in the specialized skills for identifying problems, articulating questions and writing letters to authorities to claim their right to information with regard to public services, and entitlements that is owed to them.
- To train them in special communication tools such as media campaigns, theatre activism etc. as may be needed in conscienticize both community members and the society at large on their concerned issues.
- To enable networking, through dialogues and exchange within and between communities in order to take their advocacy to the national level.
- To enable them in taking their case up to the highest bodies including the court and to that purpose help to build up a RTI -friendly legal and information regime by facilitating communication between communities, legal rights and human rights activists.
- To help develop a community of RTI champions/activists and resource centers in each community.
- To facilitate the documentation and publication of the above-mentioned activities.
